Appreciate but at the same time, disappointed!

Well, you guys all there gonna read this well. This is what I heard from my girlfriend. It's regarding about the ferry tragedy. Today, in the morning, my girlfriend and other missing victim's relatives are heading out together with the marine police for the search and find operation.

Here's what my girlfriend told. She was told to head out to search either 8am or 9am(somewhere around that time). They wait for it and asked the marine police if they can head out already or not but the marine police said that they need to wait for the YB(Yang Berhormat) to come first.

The operation was delayed till the arrival of the FIRST YB and the YB with marine police head out without the victim's relatives. They said that they still need to wait for another YB which turn out to be late again. Again, they stranded at the dock waiting for the YB to arrive. One is from MCA and another is a malay women. The malay women still don't want the marine police to go out yet. Reason? Don't ask me. My girlfriend's sister cried infront of the malay women YB only she give permission and ask the marine police to head out for the search operation.(I'll talk this part later on)

During the search, I was told by my girlfriend that the marine police didn't want to get close to any of the small tropical island they searched and hope the missing victims was washed by the tide to small island. Well, from here, I do understand between a shallow sea and deep sea. Some boats just can't reach the shores because they might crashed their boat on the rocks in shallow area.

So, my girlfriend and other women onboard have to shout while one of the victim's uncle get off the board and swim to the island to search. It's only the uncle goes into the island to search, not any police marine had done so. The search and rescue today turn out to be useless. No missing victims had been founded yet.

Ok the stories end here. Now I want to speak about the YB part. I might use some bad words from here on. If you don't want to read, go ahead and close my blog. I'm not pointing a gun at you and ask you to read it.

What with the YB that marine police need to wait them to come?

Why the malay women YB need to wait until my girlfriend's sister to cried infront of public and then only allow them to go for the search operation? Fame perhaps?

I'm not racist. 1 on the YB I've mentioned before is from MCA. This YB at least do the part where HUMAN always do. He shouted and scolded the marine police why wait to rescue someone?

Now here's my part to argue.

What do those YB had to do with these case? They are suspect or what? I keep on thinking. So do marine police need permission from YB then only can start the boat to rescue someone? This is ridiculous. Do police need to call YB and get permission before pulling a trigger against a bank robber? Do fireman need to wait for the permission from YB before they can head out? Should I dump anyone of you to the sea and wait 2 hours struggling in the sea for help because the YB haven't give me a permission to save you.

End of stories.
