

Middle East: US, France and Israel plotting against Iran

Written by Kazi Mahmood

FRIDAY, 09 MAY 2008

Reports indicate that the US special forces in coalition with French special forces and surely Israeli special forces are out to damage the respectability of Iran but they are cornered by the unity of the Arab world. The Arab world is against any attacks on Iran, fearing a backlash that would turn the entire Middle East into a war zone. They will not give their consent to the US to attack Iran.

In an earlier article on the 'tonkin' incident which signaled the beginning of the Vietnam war in the 1960's, we suggested that the US may use this type of incident to plot an attack against Iran. Now we have information that leads us to believe the US, France and Israel may be plotting together against Iran and its peaceful nuclear energy technology. The following article will depict the plot as it unravels with incidents across the world.

After the 911 events in the US, France was considered an 'enemy' by Washington due to its leniency towards Muslim states and its refusal to join the 'coalition' of the willing against Iraq. With the victory of Nicolas Sarkozy as President of the French republic, the political reality in France has shifted in favor of the U.S and its aggressive militarized foreign policy. France is today seen as the frontline nation that would use military force to attack any countries that the US and Israel believe are of international threat.

This shift in policy status in France empowers the warmongers in Washington and in Israel and gives them the capacity to divert the attention from their intended aggression against Iran.

Observers in the Muslim world are skeptical about the US and the Iranians, telling World Futures that both nations are putting up a show in order to dominate the Middle East. These observers believe that Iran is not building any bombs and the US is simply harping about future bombs to be developed by Iran in order to put less pressure on Israel and to cover up Israel's own nuclear power.

The recent incidents in the Persian Gulf between US and Iranian ships heightened the tension between Iran and the US and caused a stir in Israel. The entire scenario of an attack against Iran will be triggered by what happens in Lebanon and in the Persian Gulf, experts on the issue told WorldFutures.

The fact is that Iran is a threat to Israel's own existence but the US is using Iran as a bait to divide the Middle East further and to keep the rich Arab world under its control. To explain this is to crack a 'cassete chinoise' – or Chinese dilemma. Why would the US want to destabilize Iran when it is using Iran as the motive to keep its military presence in Iraq and in the Middle East as a whole? The answer is the security of Israel. It is not Iraq's violence that matters for the US but the borders of Israel. Iraq was invaded with the security of the Israeli borders in mind and Iran is today being touted as an enemy of the US and of Israel for its declared intent to attack Israel and wipe it out of existence.

Reports indicate that the US special forces in coalition with French special forces and surely Israeli special forces are out to damage the respectability of Iran but they are cornered by the unity of the Arab world. The Arab world is against any attacks on Iran, fearing a backlash that would turn the entire Middle East into a war zone. They will not give their consent to the US to attack Iran.

In order to trigger the war against Iran, there must be an incident and this incident would then lead to the massive engagement of US and its coalition forces against Iran. Iran is growing into stature in the Middle East with the US failures in Iraq and now the Pentagon is even talking of the Nato as replacement of the US forces in Iraq. The reason they want to drag the Nato into Iraq is to prepare for any events against the Iranians. There is war that is written on the walls and this cannot be ignored but the aim of pushing Nato to be engaged in Iraq is also to protect the interests of Israel in the region.

There exist two schools of thoughts on the Iran-US scramble. The first one is that both the US and Iran are playing a game of influence and nothing more. The second, more plausible, is that the US is weary of Iran's growing strength and will do anything to prevent it from political and military gains in the region.

To understand the situation, we must see what Islam says about Iran and its intentions. According to Islamic scholars, Iran has the long historical intent of capturing the states in the Middle East in order to become the sole occupant of the two major holy cities of Islam, namely the Makkah and the Medinah.

With this in view, it is easy to understand the current leadership of Iran which is aiming at raising Iran's authority in the region and it is doing so by cutting the grass under the US feet in Iraq. The US is finding it hard to deal with Iran militarily due to the massive presence of pro-Iranian forces in Iraq, Lebanon, Syria and the United Arab Emirates (UAE).

Iran is also very close to the Chinese and Russian governments and these two nations has pledged support to Iran in the event of an aggression by external forces. Iran is also very powerful in Iraq where it is waiting for its moment to act militarily in the future.

This brings us to understand the logic of dragging the Nato into the Iraq mess. The Nato with France in the lead will try to act as a blockade against Iran and its expansionist will. It is natural for Iran to expand itself in the middle east with its historical view that it must be the state that controls Makkah and Medinah. In the Muslim world, whoever controls these two cities are the absolute masters and they decide of the future of the Muslims worldwide. Iran could become the nation that brings the Muslim back to the era of the Caliphate if it succeeds in controlling the two holy cities.

The US is not interested in the Iranian historical will to do so as it is more interested in the protection of Israel. The real story between the US and Israel is that the US is paying Israel to exist and in return the Israelis get the military support from the US. A deal that beats the odds since it is the US that is losing both ways. However, we should not forget that the US governmental apparatus is controlled by Zionists who sets the agenda for the US internationally.

The US is only acting according to the will and wishes of the Zionists that pulls the strings behind the Neo-conservatives and the US Presidents and Vice Presidents as well as the Congress and the Senate.

Attacking Iran will be because it is a threat to Israel's very own existence. Iran is the declared enemy of Israel because as long as Israel exists, the US will not leave the Middle East region. Iran is not ready for a direct confrontation with the US because if that was so, it would have launched an attack on the weak Iraq regime in order to destroy it and capture Iraq altogether. This would be a great territorial gain for the Iranians who will then be marching towards Makkah and Medinah with ease since Lebanon will be under their control too by then.

The US cannot allow the Iranians to become that strong but it is not in a position to prevent the rise of the Persian empire altogether. With an Iranian empire, there will be no oil for the US and no Israel to protect but a massive war in the making between the West and the Persians for world control.

Will the United States of America repeat, today with Islamic Iran Republic, what they've done in the 1964 with Vietnam when they used the so called "Tonkin Gulf incident" to start its war against Vietnam? This document by Robert J. Hanyok published in the National Security Agency's classified journal Cryptologic Quarterly in early 2001 reveals the secrets of that historical incident and helps the reader to understand some obscure details related to the USA intentions towards Iran.

The two links below explains why we believe there might be a future attack against Iran.

Middle East: US, France and Israel plotting against Iran

written by yatim, May 10, 2008

Another theory to support the terrorist regime of Iran. The writer has used all sort jugglary words without showing any evidence.

Read well

written by pakli, May 10, 2008

I think yatim should read well before commenting. The article is about the expansionist drive by Iran - a danger to the sunni world and altogether about the US and Israel's will to destroy Iran. Nothing in the article is pro-Iran.

Different View

written by Woody, May 15, 2008

I have read many articles about Middle East, 1 common denominator is always use of Israel and US as their ultimate conspiracy against anyone in middle east. I did not see any article with critical view about its own shortcomings due to its theocratic environment that stifle its own people development.

In fact ,I like the possibility of Iran to be stronger with its people more enlightening, but then if her country leadership kept bending on wiping out some nation due to its past historical grudges. That will not do Iranian reputation any good either. 1 key example is recent years Iran nuclear development, I will be much more happier to hear President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad says that they have succeeded in using nuclear technology for cancer treatment, if they are more than willing to share that technology with the world to relief cancer ailment. But President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad kept telling the world his contempt towards Israel today. How he intend to wipe it off the map..

For that, not only west, but many countries also wary of if Iran ever becoming overly strong, what are they going to do ? Many people do not mind US having nuclear technology or US very strong, in fact many country economy benefited from US growth, about Israel, it has been know that to possessed nuclear technology for some time, did Olmert give his speech that he is going to use it level some country.. No..

What conspiracy theory?

written by Kazi Mahmood, May 15, 2008

Many people see conspiracy theories everywhere to the extent they forget or they fail to see reality. France is an ally of the US against Iran. France aided Israel since the 1950's to acquire nuclear weapons. Nothing strange or conspirational in understanding that France may lead attacks on Iran for the reasons explained in this article.

Mr Woody claims Olmert never said he will wipe out any countries with Israel's nuke and mentions Israel's nuke as a fait accompli that should be accepted by all. Well, not saying how they will use their nukes (illegal as it is that they possess it) does not mean they will not USE it! We know how the Zionists operates...

Kazi Mahmood

Reply-to Mr Kazi..

written by Woody, May 16, 2008

Thank you for your nice reply, . For Israel to possess nuclear capability is illegal by your argument. I whole heartedly agree that. A quick reality check..

you quoted ".. does not mean they will not USE it! We know how the Zionists operates.."

As of today, even coming under attack from barrage of rockets from Gaza (Hamas) , Olmert never threaten to nuke Gaza, so is previous PMs of Israel, even as of today, Israel recognizes formation of Palestine and accorded them their states and home..

Actually , many Palestine really enjoy living under Israel rule (those near Jerusalem), they have good decent, productive,peaceful life inside Israel due to its secular freedom . Many dare not voice it out in open due to the fear of public lynching . In Israel, public health care, works opportunities were much better ,even Gaza folks traveled to Israel for top quality medical help . For Palestine, with so much donation poured in, if Palestinian were well run with decent economy policies and visions, it should have been way far ahead by today, but no, after so many years, it still the same old story.

As of May last year, even Gaza had a massive sewage problems, again people were quick to blame Israel for that, actually Israel even sent in pump to help on humanitarian ground.

Again, I sensed that many arguments that attributes the shortcoming suffered by Middle east were all because of west/zionist...etc. But lack something self critical studies why it failed and what can Middle East do to excel in the face of global competition, how to elevate itself out of the shortcomings.

I hope you do not label me as .. zionist or yankee or anything. I sincerely hoped that Middle East prosper in any fields , be it science, be it commerce,be it arts, be it sports ..

Thank you

written by Kazi Mahmood, May 16, 2008

Thank Woody for your comments. I can see you have your strong beliefs that Israel is doing all good however, the real picture is different from what you claim. The Palestinians are not given their 'state' by Israel and Tel Aviv recognizes the existence of Palestinians in Gaza and West Bank only. The Zionist regime (I aint call you Zionist or Yankee) does not facilitate peace, it promotes chaos and it disrupts the existing business and economic circle of the Palestinians by uprooting their homes, Olive trees (innocent trees) and take their lands. A pie chart will show that Israel is slowly gaining territory, leaving the Palestinians with smaller territorial claims.

Do not forget that the Zionist regime is very afraid of the 'Saudi Peace Plan' and never accepted that plan. It is hiding behind the 'quartet' and behind the Bush regime to perpetuate its crimes and violate all UN resolutions. The Palestinians did not violate any resolutions, they are not hiding behind Mr Bush regime and they are not promoting the policies of Russia or China or even that of the Arab world in their legitimate fight against the Zionists.

Israel is totally wrong in its mission to deny the Palestinians their rights and is violating the territorial integrity of regions like Gaza and West Bank. It is doing so with impunity and with the gross impotence of the US, the UK, the EU, the UN and the Russians.

Using tanks to fight kids with stone that is so gross and so unrealistic that even Mr Jimmy Carter had to write a book to denounce the illegal practices of Israel. You cannot defend Israel but ignore its evident and daily recorded crimes!

You cannot altogether deny the Palestinians their right to respond to the Israeli crimes by sending rockets into Israel, rockets that does more damage to the high and mighty pride of the Israeli regime than it kills or maims Israelis!

Thanks for visiting and come again.

Real

written by Woody, May 16, 2008

Dear Mr Kazi,

About real picture...

I used to be brought up to believe "Zionist" did many bad things, until I met a few Jews and Palestinians during my working life and a student in younger days. My perception changed a lot after that. But I am not about to debate it here.

Sometime what we see in TV , Internet can be deceptive, kids crying , mothering crying, people running. Can be deceptive. Even Al-Dura that led to "intifada" story that used to make my blood boil, now found to be less than 1/2 true.

I know, emotional can be high. Once I met a wise man..that gave me this kind words..

"Do not let anger cloud your judgment to the extent that only grudge exist in your mind, when sole purpose of living is only fueled by the hatred of others. Learn to see others in better light, including the enemy, you will see more positive things to learn from them"

At times , our own brother did bad things too.

Thank you..

Woody.

The TV does not always lie

written by Kazi Mahmood, May 16, 2008

Thanks for the prompt response. Yet it is real the killing of Palestinians by Israel soldiers armed to the teeth. It is real the stories we hear and see from Jenin, now Gaza and also the West Bank. There is no denial that Israel is in a corner, uncapable of dealing with peace and in denial of a Palestinian state. They are duping the world - and they got you too Woody - into believing they are peaceful and they are the victims.

The TV does not lie when it shows the bloodies Palestinian babies. The situation has reversed itself and instead of Palestinians bombing Israeli busses, it is Israeli soldiers aremed to the teeth killing babies!

I do have Israeli 'friends' who told me about the horrors of their government's crushing domination and no mercy approach towards the Palestinians.

I believe in the words of Allah when in the Holy Book Al-Quraan HE says he has 'outcast' the Jews as 'harami' - a people that lives by lawlessness and illegalities.

About Dura, the poor boy who is not alive anymore, the Jews knows too well how to twist the stories back forth and up under. I just hope that you can open your eyes and your heart and agree that Israel is violating too many 'human' rules and that they will not settle for peace until and as and when the Muslims kick them out of "Palestine". For that is what they are waiting for and it may suddenly happen despite the protection the Zionists are getting from the US, UK and now France.

Belief

written by Woody, May 16, 2008

Dear Mr Kazi,

Since you stood by strongly what you see in TV and any Internet pictorial as being most truthful as prescribed by your belief system , it is going to be difficult for you to see other side of story... here is why.

Benefit of doubt can be good at times. It relieves us from getting manipulated in our own thinkings including that of religious nature. Sometime a religion may mandate its believer to simply believe and support what their fellow brother did somewhere in the name of religion, but what if , what they did was criminal in nature ?

To simply believe that they are at war every day in day out at each other's throat is simply flawed (I used to believe that) .And all Jew and Israel are running Tanks all over Palestinian baby at its wimp and fancy is simply flawed.

As recently, when Hamas fired rocket into border town of Israel, when Israel strike back, Hamas was calling for "Human shield" to gather around the place where some Hamas member took refuge, hoping that with civilian presence, Israel will not discharge fire arm on them. During military incursion , bullet is blind. Then when dead bodies of innocents and babies lying there, the TV crew film it and broadcast it to the world, people calling it martyr . I used to digest those picture without much questioning with much anger. But now I gave it a little more doubt. (Above move was condemn by human rights watch, by the way, as early as 2002)

I am not denying the fact Israel fire rockets into civilians at time, but I am also wary of the Hamas are using civilian as human shield to gain political mileage and sympathy.

To me, Hamas should be using the money (that fire Qassam rocket) by building their schools, hospitals, clean up the place of historical interest around Gaza area, and starts welcoming tourist. They have a beautiful stretch of beaches there for people to holiday. Perhaps look into efforts of rejuvenating the country so that Gaza will see more hope in living there. Starts re-educating kids to appreciate beautiful things , learn to create.

Thank you,

Woody

Leave them in peace

written by Kazi Mahmood, May 16, 2008

Hi Woody,

Great comments however, though am not in total disagreement with you, I insist that Israel as a nation that is recognized by the UN, should behave as a nation and not as a group of hoodlums that want to shove Christalnit on the Palestinians. They should let the peacemakers do their work, the Jews and Israel should let the Palestinians Be (Let the Palestinians Be was one of my poems published in an Arab newspaper in London in the 1990's).

Imagine how true your words will be if the Israelites allowed the Palestinians to BE and stopped from uprooting the innocent trees and burrying the innocent people under rubbles.

Siding with Israel in their murderous and their tricherie (french) will not help the cause of Peace, Mr Woody. It will only embolden the Zionists to commit more crimes since they can be defended by good thinking people like you.

Am not standing by 'anti-Islamic' actions commited by Muslims since Islam dissosiates itself from the actions of Muslims that commit horrible acts. Islam however condemns the acts of a nation called Israel and that is acting like a bunch of barbarians while the entire world is watching. Poor PR, shameful excercise full of deceit. Deceit is a trait of Satan and since Israel is full of deceit, what does that make them?

I stand by my right as a Muslim to defend the defenseless Palestinians against the fully equipped and fully armed Israelis who are duping people like you.

Good to discuss towards world peace written by Redhuan D. Oon, May 23, 2008

Salam and Peace!

I believe that the world conflicts are not desired by its peoples but by certain parties in power. I wish to sit down with Jews and Christians alike in harmony as we have done in Jerusalem during Saladin Ayubi's and Spanish Cordoba's times.

The much longer and rich history before the present Middle East conflict has gone buried in its past. We should replenish its great era of intra-semitic tranquility. I as a chinese new muslim am proud of this world of Allah and all its beauty. We must ban war and nuclear arms. Sit down and give more than take.

In the hereafter Allah will not ask why you give in but shall reward for doing it out of forgiveness and in His name. Don't take my word for it. Read the Quran yourself.

Conspiracy or not, we must all call for the stated objectives here. Ban all WMDs.

Peace!

Muslims will be Muslims

written by Langolier, May 26, 2008

How come the few minority or moderate Muslims long to sit down with the infidels or People of the Book while the majority of Muslims long for the destruction of all infidels and reinstate the Dar al-Islam into their piece of land? What text or motivation are these "extremist" taking out of context? As far as i know, they are just true to their religion and every bit of them dates back to their primary example the Prophet Muhammad. Most Muslims paint him to be compassionate and wise (just because of some separate incidences recorded). How about those parts which paints the man a violent and unforgiving killer and worst still a paedophile? The prophet reminds me of leaders from certain cults where double standards are applied. For instance, he can have more than 4 wives while the others are only limited to four. If you don't call it double standards, you will call it a privilege for a prophet. Most of the world's troubles draws inspiration from this prophet who has set his precedence on dominance. From Nigeria, France, South Philippines, Western China, Middle Asia, where there are Muslims, there will always be some sort of rebellion against their infidel governments. It runs in their blood and religious belief to be a dominating force wherever they are. Israel is one of the few examples the Muslims lost Dar al-Islam to Dar al-Harb and the cannot bear such a abomination to their belief of the Quran. And talking about all the media we hear today, just look at the fruits of the people. The Palestinians are like thugs who fight and kill among themselves and have no progress in their societies. Look at Israel and how many patents they have contributed to the world. When there is trouble within Israel, you don't see them shooting guns into the sky and killing their own kin unnecessarily. I know a barbarian when i see one, and i will also know a civilized people when i see one. You think we don't know how Palestinians draw symphathy over children's dead bodies? Just take them as human shields when you shoot at an Israeli soldier and the rest you can imagine. Too numerous pictures of children strapped with bombs and calling the Jews pigs and monkeys. I don't see that in the Israeli media, calling the Palestinians or Muslims pigs and donkeys. So for those who eat from the same tree, Muslims will be Muslims until you truly find out the truth of your religion and move on like Walid Shoebat (former PLO Terrorist).

Conspiracy against Iran?

written by Langolier, May 26, 2008

Give you a good example here. When a man is consistently calling a nation to be wiped out off the map and gearing to nuclear power, would you be scared of this man if he refers to your nation? Let's say if i want to erase Mecca out of the world map today and i am spending most of my money on nuclear power research, what would you do? It is always a conspiracy against the Muslim world. Makes the Muslims sound so stupid for failing to identify so many conspiracies throughout the ages. Please get a life. When the toilet fails to flush, it is a Zionist conspiracy too?

Ah langolier

written by Kazi Mahmood, May 26, 2008

Rhetorical Langolier, pls try to practice what you preach. When you take examples, please try to put the Palestinians also in your 'good side' of the example, such as think if you were a palestinian and people took your land just like that, what would u do? French people are hating the Muslims they brought to France coz the Muslims now want their rights. British do the same, Americans also. You are so one sided that i tend to believe you have only one eye! And do you know what is a one eye bastard in Christianity? It is either gog/magog or the Ante-Christ. Foutreva Langelier!

Wishful thinking

written by Kazi Mahmood, May 26, 2008

Langolier, ur full of wishful hatred. U quoted: Let's say if i want to erase Mecca out of the world map today....

Well as a Muslim, let me tell you this: Go ahead, go and erase Mecca. That would not make me change my faith. But I think its a long shot. U or Bush or his ante-Christ allies will not be able to to do this one single thing - that is erase Mecca from the world map! Trust me. Yet on the other hand, Israel will surely dissappear, with or without Iran's nuke...Trust me harder and you will see it. No one except God can prevent the crash of Israel and its dissappearance from the world map yet God always keep His promises which is clearly stated in the books of revelations and it is the erasing of Israel from existence.

Someone's throwing a tantrum here...

written by Langolier, May 27, 2008

Someone of your stature is sounding like a baby now... Did i mentioned anything about Christianity or Ante-Christ? You Muslims will only know how to throw accusations without looking at the real problem. I feel pity for people like you. Only bend on the destruction of others, as you mentioned "Israel will surely disappear, with or without Iran's nuke". You summed it up all well. Look at your response when i say wiping Mecca out on the map of the world. Now you feel what the Israelis feel when Ahmedinejad keeps stressing that point and gearing to nuclear power. Please before you throw "one eye bastard" term to me, look at yourself in the mirror. Hypocrite.

written by Kazi Mahmood, May 27, 2008

First of all Langolier, pls do not get personal here. Its about Israel's murderous campaign, not about me or my charactor and much much lesser about your personality. So keep the real issues up and not the personal, emotional feelings that you have.

You can only accuse Muslims for this and for that while you close your eyes on the reality in Gaza and West Bank. Yes the Ante-Christ has everything to do with what is happening and if you are blind enough to ignore it, that is your problem.

And yes you can go and bomb the Mecca...but I simply told you that it is not as simple as that just to make wishful thinking and to dream of an act of terror while you condemn others of terrorism!

I will say that you are to learn more by coming here than to teach anyone else. So pls do not try to be the tutor and be the reader, that will suffice.

You are welcome to comment on the issues, not on me or on Islam or the Muslims. I repeat it, do not try to pull issues together and attempt to show that Muslims cannot handle situations. The west is not the big white colonialist anymore, time has changed and the Muslims can teach your people how to do things too. Learn that and respect it before you start your own tantrums and accuse others of such.

Thanks for coming again!
